We are holding an event to show the classic LGBTQ+ film, "Brokeback Mountain," which is about two queer men finding love while working as seasonal sheep herding cowboys in the mountains of the American midwest between the 1960s and 1980s. Important themes in the film include period-appropriate homophobia and lack of legal protections for LGBTQ+ persons. We believe that this event will inspire interesting conversations about depictions of American LGBTQ+ history and the legal issues presented in those depictions, as well as how long and hard-fought for LGBTQ+ protections are currently very vulnerable. Because the event is at night, we will be providing a dinner of cowboy inspired BBQ food.

Purpose of funds: Bitcoin is Property, Everything Else is Just a Bundle of Sticks

Mr. Joe Walters, a local Tallahassee attorney and Bitcoin guru, presents his thesis that property ownership on the Bitcoin blockchain stands in contrast to traditional, black-letter notions of property law. He submits that ownership on the Bitcoin blockchain is all rights, all the time. In contrast, black-letter property law regards property ownership as a bundle of rights--or sticks--as opposed to complete, total ownership, due to externalities imposed on other property owners. Professor Ryan will provide commentary on traditional, black-letter property law during Mr. Walters's presentation.

Purpose of funds: Rep Your Country at State

In HLSA's inaugural year (2021), the organization hosted Rep Your Country at 'State for the first time. Rep Your Country at 'State is an event where all organizations and students in the law school come together to celebrate their cultures, diversity, and uniqueness. There is no other event at the law school like it, one that brings together different organizations to celebrate. HLSA has partnered with the Office of Student Advancement, SBA, BLSA, JLSA, CLS, SVLS, APALSA, OutLaw, and ELS. Every organization will have a table and an area to conduct some sort of activity. All students are welcomed to attend. The goal is to conduct a multicultural event where students can eat foods that represent different parts of the world and engage in cultural activities or games, like in the Hispanic community, playing dominoes.
