Questions:

- What are the funds for?
  - We have invited an esteemed speaker, Dr. Kuchibhotla, to speak with students at the FSU College of Medicine. As an FSU COM alumna (2015), Dr. Kuchibhotla successfully moved on to a residency in Internal Medicine, and is currently a Cardiology Fellow. Dr. Kuchibhotla will be speaking on his experience as a medical student, how he worked on his application for residency, and what led him to a career in cardiac medicine. Students (both in person attendees and Zoom participants) will have the opportunity to ask Dr. Kuchibhotla questions about his academic and professional career.
  - Note: Approved for a total of $294
    - RSO submitted an original quote from Chick-Fil-A in the allocation request. This quote was incorrect from the vendor, and a new one was provided in our meeting. The new costs are as follows:
    - 1 Large Nugget Tray @ $94, 1 Medium Nugget Tray @ $56.50, 1 Large Mac and Cheese Tray @ $64.50, 1 Large Fruit Tray at $61.50, 1 Gallon of Sweet Tea @ $6, 1 Gallon of Lemonade @ $11.50

Questions:

- What are the funds for?
  - The Florida Geriatrics Society (FGS) works very closely with FSU College of Medicine and always recognizes students at FSU COM over students from other Florida medical schools. In fact, our beloved Dr. Debra Danforth is the FGS president, and our support as members is beneficial to support both her as our faculty and the relationship between FSU COM and the FGS.
- How does this benefit Geriatrics Interest Group and the student body?
  - BENEFITS OF MEMBERSHIP INCLUDE:
    - Evidence-based CME and CEU credits
    - Notification and early registration for annual meeting and educational symposium: Highlighting special geriatric cases, need-to-know best care practices, and interaction with your colleagues across Florida
    - Participation in the FGS annual poster symposium to award the David Lowenthal Founders Award
    - Organizational influence and collaboration with non-profit, regulatory, and governmental boards and committees
    - Up-to-date and informative bi-monthly digital e-news updates and a monthly membership e-Newsletter on issues and events affecting your profession.
    - As leaders in the Geriatrics Interest Group, we will be sharing all the necessary up-to-date information on caring for the geriatric community. Since we will all be going out and volunteering with the geriatrics, especially during these trying times, we must know the best way to approach caring for these underserved individuals.
    - The GIG is working towards being accepted into the American Geriatrics Society (AGS). Being part of FGS works towards that. If accepted into the AGS, FSU COM will receive future stipends from the AGS to help fund future research, events, and progressing the Tallahassee geriatric medical community.

- Note: Membership dues for $150.00 @ $25/per officer for this year’s executive board and Roei Golan, last year’s President was approved.

Questions:

- What are the funds for?
  - Travel request is for the annual American Academy of Dermatology Annual Conference in Boston, Massachusetts.
  - Students were emailed about the conference occurring and those interested were included in the group going. All students were either a part of last year's executive board, on this year's executive board, or are presenting research at the conference.
- How does this benefit the study body and the College of Medicine?
  - Attending this conference as an FSU student increase research possibilities and connections for all students. The current dermatology opportunities at FSU COM are not as wide as some other Florida schools, so through attending this conference we can connect with esteemed and successful dermatologic physicians and researchers.
- Are any of the students presenting research at the conference?
  - Charissa Obeng-Nyarko
- Note: Amount of $1400.00 is approved. $175 per attendee that is not presenting at the conference, and $350 allotted to Charissa Obeng-Nyarko, who is presenting research at this conference.

- This price per student includes the registration fee ($95/per person) and a travel stipend ($80 to the non-presenting students, $255 to Charissa, the student presenting research). Attendees and allocations are as follows:
