Organizations receive funds for the particular conference of event, any funds not spent will be swept back to the funding council and eventually to COGS at the end of the fiscal year. COGS approval is required for all expenditures, and funds are only granted to organizations who follow policies outlined in the SGA/COGS Financial Manual, COGS Code, and SGA Statutes.

Meeting Minutes

(please include a breakdown of the funding request, costs, and what allocated funds are being allocated for. Should also include the vote for each request).

The Medical School Council (MSC) reserves the right to sweep any funds back to us.

If an organization wishes to use the funds for a reason other than the one they described at the meeting, they must get approval from MSC.

Questions:

- What are the funds for?
 - After a week of events to foster education and unity within the FSU community, our last event of Racism Awareness Week (RAW) will entail the Block Party. The Block Party will focus on continuing that unity and focusing on how we all can move forward together. We will be having guest speakers present in the Tallahassee community that are direct representatives for the mission of RAW. They will teach us about the amazing work they do and us students can potentially get involved with the community. We plan to have various food vendors representing various cultures at this event, exemplifying the diverse community that Tallahassee has to offer. We want to emphasize locally owned businesses in the theme of RAW 2023. We will have many different games, FSU and community organizations tabling, and a RAW themed scavenger hunt.
 - Note: Reminded RSO that purchase is tax exempt
 - Note: RSO is in charge of distributing food with masks per COVID guidelines
 - Note: All vendors are approved per RSO
 - Note: Event will be advertised via email and Nole Central. Instructed RSO to make an event flyer with the COGS logo per financial manual guidelines

 - The Obstetrics & Gynecology Interest Group will be partnering with Racism Awareness Week. The week will occur from Jan 9-Jan 13. The Racism Awareness Week committee will hold a two-part event on Wednesday Jan 11, the first at midday, where students at the COM can participate in an interactive jeopardy game about women's health. The second half would consist of Dr. Brown-Speights and Dr. Flynn hosting a panel discussion with three patients: two cis women and one trans woman. Other topics that may be discussed are fibroids in different ethnic groups and maternal mental health and mortality. We will encourage attendees to wear pink scrubs or attire to the event.

Questions:

- What are the funds for?
 - Racism Awareness Week is an annual event at the FSU College of Medicine. The purpose of the week is to shine a light on racism in medicine and ways that we can make a change. The week will take place Jan 9 - Jan 13 2023. The first day will be a kickoff event held at the College of Medicine to celebrate the start of the event. We plan to interact with students, faculty and staff. The co-leads Riann White and Aaliyah Bourne will introduce the schedule and order of events and the raffle opportunities available. We will also reveal the theme of the week. Food and drinks will be served. All graduate students are welcome to join us for this great week that we have planned.

Questions:

- What are the funds for?
 - Students will have the chance to learn about different types of disabilities, the Americans with Disabilities Act, and accommodations in healthcare settings. They will also be able to hear firsthand experiences from three or four people who have disabilities and have good and bad experiences in healthcare. Students will have the chance to ask them questions as well. This will benefit students in their future workplace to be aware of accommodations that may be needed and the rights of those with disabilities.

Questions:

- What are the funds for?
 - During this event, students will hear from multiple speakers and learn about patient-provider communication with patients with disabilities. They will also learn about protocols used to make these visits easier and give patients with disabilities more autonomy and respect. After the speaker portion, students will be broken up into groups and speak more closely with an individual with a disability. They will share their story with the students and we are encouraging students to ask them any questions they may have.

Questions:

- What are the funds for?
 - The event is a part of Racism Awareness Week. A panel of medical students and residents will discuss their experience with microaggressions during their journey in medical school. A discussion will occur about how students can navigate these situations. Our overarching goal is to provide insight and information to students about health care disparities. The hope is to help future health care providers with a perspective they may not be aware of and hopefully inspire students to incorporate a sense of empathy towards their patients.
