1) Priorities

Newsletter (COGS monthly) --- Publish a newsletter biannually to disseminate to the public who and what COGS is. We will be posting the COGS on the COGS website. A snapshot of the newsletter will be shared on our Instagram page as a post as well as in a link. Goal publish date for Issue No. 1 may be on March 1st, 2023 or as a surprise release at the March 6th COGS meeting.

Below is a sample newsletter from 2021: Max length at 3 pages to keep this brief.

Supporting the FSU Childcare & Early Learning Center

As students and FSU staff and faculty start to carry out their tasks back on FSU's campus, childcare is an imperative need for many who balance caregiving and workrelated responsibilities. The FSU Childcare and Early Learning Center, in turn, is preparing to welcome back students with their center operating at full capacity. FSU COGS Representatives recently toured the facility and discussed staff operations, resources, and funding needs with Associate Director Tiffany Karnisky. Ms. Karkisky and the center's staff members evidently work to accommodate attendance fees, provide food, curriculum-relevant materials, and support to the children and their family. COGS recognizes the need for scholarships and funding to maintain the support of the center, and continues to discuss ways to structure a consistent funding source through its Student Advocacy Committee.

Continue communication with childcare center to stay involved. Great resource for graduate students with families.

Left column: The org will write a summary of the event they held, how it went, and what they look forward to.

Right column: Highlight a COGS representative with an interesting bio, what they're passionate about, etc.

AED – Keep subject line

COGS Latest – Keep open seats as it's important that people know we are still recruiting.

Since the newsletter will be published on our website, remove QR codes and replace with hyperlinks for feedback and prospective representative package.

At the end of the newsletter, make a highlight about our budget. We may consider including a summary, of the committee, the hearings, a highlight about our budget such as the remaining unallocated estimate, and a link for more information. Finally, we will add a link inviting readers to our assembly. Add hype!!! "Keep this on your radar. More details provided soon. Look out for \_\_\_\_!"  $\bigcirc \bigcirc \bigcirc$

What's New in the Graduate School?

Highlight an RSO

The Organization of Religion for Graduate Students hosted a workshop on how to publish  $\ensuremath{\mathsf{r}}$ esearch in on May 7, 2021. They hosted editors from four important journals in the field of Religious Studies. Invited editors gave short presentations about different stages of the publication process and shared invaluable insight meant to make the publication process less ambiguous and accessible to young scholars. Editors also answered questions posed by current graduate students about building a rapport with editors, networking, and the state of the field. The event was well attended and wellreceived from graduate students, faculty, and panelists alike. The organization looks forward to their upcoming spring symposium with hopes of inviting speakers in person in February. For more information about the Organization of Religion for Graduate Students and their upcoming events, please contact Tavlor Dean at fsureligionsymposium@gmail.com.

Featured Representative (BIO)

Create a poll about a particular topic that you can further discuss in the next issue. Have students send

Left panel: Highlight an RSO that we funded. We will request an RSO to write a small summary.

Right panel: Highlight a COGS member in our congress.

RSO Update

As students and FSU staff and faculty start to carry t their tasks back on FSU's campus, childcare is an imperative need for many who balance caregiving and work-related responsibilities. The FSU Childcare and Early Learning Center, in turn, is preparing to welcome back students with their center operating at full capacity.

FSU COGS Representatives recently toured the facility and discussed staff operations, resources, and funding needs with Associate Director Tiffany Karnisky. Ms. Karkisky and the center's staff members evidently work to accommodate attendance fees, provide food, curriculumrelevant materials, and support to the children and their family. COGS recognizes the need for scholarships and funding to maintain the support of the center, and continues to discuss ways to structure a consistent funding source through its Student Advocacy Committee.

- Who We Are? What do We do? How to get involved? ---- We can work with student affairs to (1) help RSOs connect with one another and (2) inform RSOs that don't know about COGS that we are a resource for them. It will be good way for us to get involved.
- 2. Upcoming Events
  - a. Link ---- Compile a Listserve RSOs. Write what already happened and advertise an event that is coming up.
  - b. RSO training
- 3. Member corner

- a. Highlight ---- (see above newsletter)
- 4. Upcoming
- ii. COGS handbook
  - Updates 2022 and 2023 ---- The updates on the handbook are done but posted online yet. Due to the high turnover in the executive board, the executive members need not be named in the handbook. We may simply include executive board titles with the emails alone (no pictures) to reduce the number of edits required.

2) Goals of COGS Code update

a. Continue with group travel

- COGS code update: Promoting the mission and goal of the RSO
  - i. Research about group travel ----

Re-word COGS codes 202.8, 208, and 207 regarding group travel to avoid confusion related to each RSO's different interpretation of the current writing:

202.5

- A. Group travel is limited to travel that serves the promotion of the mission and goal of the RSO as well as to the betterment of the FSU student body.
- B. All purchases for travel require the approval of the Assembly by resolution in a majority vote.

202.8

No RSO shall receive COGS Fund for Conference Travel. All Conference Travel may be funded through COGS Presentation and Attendance Grants (Refer to chapter on COGS Conference Grants)

202.8 Edit

A) Any conference (more than 100 miles) within the Continental United States shall be eligible for a grant of up to $200.00 of appropriate conference-related expenses. (as defined in Chapters 208 and 209 of this code)

208.2 D

Strike.

- 1. Statutes? ---- see above
- 2. SGA? ---- see above
  - a. Should have a separate committee for travel
  - b. Allocate different line items for group travel for the workshop
- 3. Expired language ---- see above
  - a. Need to strike from the CODE
    - i. Allocate different sections of code for review
    - ii.

b. Student Engagement

- 1. Increase graduate student engagement (Post COVID) ---- Goal is to increase engagement with RSOs before semester-end.
  - a. RSO on campus ---- New events! We will diversify who we're collaborating with by starting an annual graduate student welcome event. Plan and distribute information to gather international and graduate students together.
  - Assessment of what percentages are getting funded by COGS -- Collaboration and programs: Send out a Qualtrics form on the RSO Listserv to gauge our collaboration and program involvement.
  - c. COGS presence on Campus ---- Also send out collaborative program requests to RSOs announcing our want to collaborate. The more we can collaborate, we can have others in RSOs help push out events! We can also advertise: If an RSO comes to us for funding, not only is the bill sponsor sponsoring the RSO, but will also be a resource in the next steps in terms of planning the event after they receive the money. We are there to help facilitate the event and put the COGS name on it. This would help to get our name known on campus and get more grad students involved.

Creating a Listserv: Someone internal in NoleCentral must download a current list. As back up, we can manually add each RSO to our list once an RSO comes to COGS requesting a budget. This would help us see who is on our annual budget.

Next meeting: Tuesday, February 21st at 5:00 P.M.
